

The Avid Film Appreciation Series
Bollywood Born In The 80s - Muslim Social

The AVID Film Appreciation Series is born out of a love for cinema, and hopes to inculcate in Indian audiences a deeper sensitivity to the craft and the schools of aesthetics, politics, culture and philosophy there-in, by examining some notable periods and movies in Indian film history.

Our first series, Bollywood Born in the 80s is an ode to one of the most controversial and yet memorable decades of Indian cinema, traversing never-before subjects like changes in the muslim social milieu, the trend of machoism, city-centric topics and feminist films. 'Experimental' was the key word at play seen in screenplays with mass appeal, the emphasis on costumes and high-on-heels music. Muslim Social revisits one such classic, Kamal Amrohi's historical costume drama 'Razia Sultan', starring Hema Malini and Dharmendra which broke new ground in socio-cultural subjects, costumes and cinematography.

Relive the era's visual grandeur with Film Critic and Journalist, Nandini Ramnath, in conversation with Filmmaker and Producer, Nasreen Munni Kabir, accompanied by a curated reel of scenes and songs from the film.

Details

Date : 3rd April, 2014

Time: 6:30 PM to 8:00PM (Registration and Refreshments 6:00PM onwards)

Venue : GoodEarth, Raghuvanshi Mills Compound, Tulsi pipe road, Mumbai

To Register

(Mobile): 9819731922/9930134152

(Email): register@avidedu.in

(Website): www.avidlearning.in

More Event Updates available at:

Facebook:

Twitter:

About Nandini Ramnath :

Nandini Ramnath is a film journalist and critic with the financial daily Mint. She has previously worked with Time Out Mumbai, NDTV 24x7 and The Indian Express.